IP Communications Single Order Voice

Future-proof your business with IP voice

Prepare for the All-IP world with our Single Line Voice solution, a direct replacement product for traditional voice services.

In the biggest change to telecoms in a generation, the PSTN and ISDN are closing, meaning no more landlines or copper-based solutions. Until now, broadband connectivity required two products: a telephone line and a broadband package. As we move into the All-IP future, Single Order, data-only broadband will be the only connection needed while voice becomes an over-the-top solution.

Voice over IP (VoIP) is now the standard application for business uses, but we understand that the feature-rich licences for cloud-based services are often too elaborate and expensive for many small or micro businesses, offering advanced features they don't need.

With our Single Line Voice, you can embrace the All-IP future with a basic voice solution that delivers the call features and quality that you are used to.
